
Cannabis

Volpe Koenig's cannabis team guides clients through the complex and ever-evolving legal landscape in the cannabis industry. As legalization of medicinal and recreational cannabis rapidly expands across the U.S., protecting intellectual property is more important than ever.

Volpe Koenig's cannabis IP professionals work with distributors, retailers, suppliers, and investors to secure and protect their innovations and brands. We bring extensive experience counseling large, high technology companies to the cannabis space.

We work with clients to protect their investments in branding by registering and enforcing trademarks and other soft IP rights. We also work to protect our clients' cannabis related innovations by securing, enforcing, and monetizing patent rights. We develop intellectual property strategies that increase value for both owners and investors.

Our attorneys can help you evaluate and secure your intellectual property in a number of ways, including counseling on:

- Patent prosecution
- Trademark registration and enforcement
- Copyright protection and enforcement
- Licensing
- Domain name registration and disputes
- Brand protection
- Trade secrets and proprietary information matters
