Volpe and Koenig, P.C., President Jay Halt discusses the state of the Philadelphia's intellectual property bar in the Philadelphia Business Journal. The article cites Volpe and Koenig, P.C., as one of the few firms experiencing growth in the region. Jay explains that Volpe and Koenig has "always had electrical work" but has "added more life sciences and mechanical" services over its 30 years in business. Jay also notes that while "a lot of [Volpe and Koenig's clients] have large in-house legal departments...they still come to us because they know we aren't going to try and grab work away from their people. We treat them like partners."
